The Equitable, which since 1859 has paid policyholders and beneficiaries more than $5,000,000,000, paid $40,923,325 in such benefits last year in New York State and $214,368,000 in the country at large.

Mr. Parkinson said:

"The increase in dividend payments, applying to most types of individual policies, reflects the favorable trend of mortality experience in recent years and the continued financial progress of the society. During the past several years the society has been strengthening surplus and reserves. This has progressed to the point where it is felt that an increased distribution of dividends for 1944 can prudently be made."

In The Right Direction

The House Ways and Means committee has at last broken the Congressional log jam on tax simplification and has introduced what seems to be an approach toward an intelligent revision of the national taxpaying structure. The bill probably goes as far as is possible under present conditions.

Taxpayers are arbitrarily divided into two separate groups by the measure—the approximately 30,000,000 persons drawing less than $5,000 a year, and those receiving more than $5,000.

The withholding system would be completely revised for the 30,000,000 earning less than $5,000 a year and Congress would seek to deduct weekly the full tax liability—or as close to full taxation as statistically possible. The amount deducted from the weekly pay check would be more, but the tax rate would remain basically the same.

At the end of the year, the taxpayers would not be compelled to file a return but would simply take his annual withholding receipt, list his dependents on the reverse side, and send it to the collector.

At this point, the collector would do the figuring and either bill the taxpayer for the small additional sum required or issue a refund check in case of overpayment.

It is simple, direct and understandable.

For those earning more than $5,000, the Ways and Means committee believes that at least half would use a simple tax table while the rest would fill out forms in more detail, but that even those forms would be simpler than the present complex requirements.

It is encouraging and relieving to hear that Congress has finally started to move, but even more encouraging is the response of Congress.

What has happened is the result of representative government. This time it has been the "people's lobby," so to speak, which has won out. The people of the United States became exasperated and dissatisfied with the complex tax form. They said so plainly. And Congress has gone to work.

That is representative government.

Care In Propaganda

Some newspapers have been lambasting our State department and the British Broadcasting Corporation for banning disparaging remarks about the Japanese emperor in broadcasts. The papers are right when they cite a catalog of war guilt as a basis for their annoyance, but they miss the point of the prohibition.

Nobody thinks that Hirohito is a little god—except the Japs. And therein lies the reason for not broadcasting our opinion of him. A prime objective of propaganda is to create distrust and disunity, but we must approach the objective differently in German and Japanese broadcasts. We can recite Hitler's crimes to the German people, and hope that enough of them will feel the same way to rise up and get rid of him. But that won't work with the Japanese.

Anyone who knows the Japs well will tell you that to belittle their emperor in broadcasts would be to unite the whole Japanese nation, military and civilian, in a fierce hatred of the belittlers.

No, the Allies are not pussyfooting when they don't call Hirohito names on the air. It just isn't good propaganda.

Tax Boost Backfires

When Congress raised the cabinet tax from 5 to 30 per cent, it did so with the intention of increasing the government's revenue from such sources. But it is increasingly evident that things haven't turned out the way Congress anticipated.

The tax increase applies to places which provide entertainment—with the idea that customers would be glad to pay an extra 25 per cent on their checks for the privilege of seeing a floor show or doing a bit of dancing. And that includes servicemen.

But in many night spots, particularly in New York, public unwillingness to pay the extra tax has caused proprietors to cut out their entertainment and run their establishments only as bars or restaurants.

The result is that the government revenue falls off instead of increasing and that great numbers of entertainers are thrown out of jobs. Unemployed entertainers in New York alone were estimated at 10,000 last week-end, with the probability that the figure would mount to 20,000.

The first member of Congress to do something about the situation is Rep. Harold Knutson, Minnesota Republican.

Representative Knutson asserts that Congress unwittingly used its tax power to destroy when it ordered such a boost in the cabinet tax. He adds that many establishments have been put out of business by the tax increase and that others will follow if relief is not given. He has introduced a bill to reduce the tax to 20 per cent—dubious relief at best.

It is apparent that the increased cabinet tax as it stands is a boomerang.

Farm Machinery Shortage

American farmers soon will learn whether the federal government's agricultural machinery policy will prove adequate or whether it will fall into the too-little-and-too-late classification.

Last year implement firms were required to cut their output to 12 or 14 per cent of 1940-41 production. While reducing the tools needed on farms, the government pleaded with farmers for a material increase in foodstuffs for the armed forces, lend-lease and domestic use.

The machinery quota for this year is approximately 80 per cent of the 1940-41 average, but manufacturers and dealers who are familiar with conditions insist that this means far less machinery than the farmers require. Used equipment is being sought eagerly at farm sales and often brings more than the original selling price. Farm units manufactured now are going into the hands of those who need them within a few days after they leave the production line.

Nobody expects normal conditions in any type of manufacturing when a global war is being serviced, but the simple truth is that some of these dislocations have been caused more by bad planning than by anything else.

Surplus war material, built but never used, is now beginning to be offered to the highest bidders. Included in many of these articles is the steel that could have gone into farm machinery and thereby enabled the farmers to produce what continues to be vitally needed.

With or without the equipment they ought to have, American farmers will strike to meet their quotas. Their task would have been far more possible of attainment if there had been less muddling in Washington.

Looking at Yank and the Stars and Stripes the veteran of World War I finds army humor quite the same, but a trifle more artistic. Incidentally, the soldier publishers are doing a great job.

Public Rights

WASHINGTON, April 29.—Footnote to the news from London on the eve of invasion tells of the sentencing of a prominent and popular actor to eight weeks in prison for misuse of his car in commuting between his home and his theater. That is a sign of the severity with which Britain is enforcing civilian restrictions.

Consider the contrast here! Here a committee of the house has solemnly proposed that price control regulations belittled American rights are being invaded!

That comes from the group of which Howard Smith of Virginia is chairman. The committee proposes to make some changes in the basic price control act. They sound fairly unimportant. The average citizen won't see their real significance.

Actually, if incorporated in the law, they would riddle the precarious price control structure. They would open the way to the deluge of inflation.

Rights Invaded

Of course American rights are being invaded. They're being invaded by the evil necessity of war that was not of our choosing; a war that came as a sneak attack on our chief military outpost in the Pacific.

Of the Smith committee's proposed changes—those innocent changes to "protect" the American citizen—a commentator solemnly writes:

"One of the most unfortunate aspects of a war period is the tendency to put over during an emergency changes that are plainly unconstitutional and are normally against public policy."

War isn't constitutional. Ask the man who came back from Tarawa—the men who were fortunate enough to come back—what was constitutional about that bloody ordeal.

What all this shows is a failure to comprehend the kind of struggle we're in. It's a price with the upshot of the closing of night clubs because of the new 30 per cent entertainment tax.

Certainly that tax is working a hardship on many innocent people. Certainly the price control act is working a hardship—immense hardships.

Vital Choice

But the choice may well be the survival of this nation. I believe that inflation could be nearly as disastrous as a military defeat. I believe that out of it could come the destruction of all our liberties.

No one has a right to question Congressman Smith's motives. He has, however, a blind spot and a serious blind spot. He is a fanatical believer in "state rights" and a fanatical hater of anything that comes under the word "bureaucracy."

That's all right, either as a belief or merely for political rib-tumpling. In normal times it's all right. In wartime, some of our convictions must be temporarily sacrificed. War means inevitably the tightening of national control in order to hold the country together in a period of trial.

The effect of the Smith committee proposals would be actually to increase the federal bureaucracy. The committee proposes, for example, to allow accused offenders to go into any federal district court to attack a regulation rather than solely to the emergency federal court created under the price control act.

Increase Lawsuits

This would mean several hundred lawsuits scattered all around the country. It would mean that members of the OPA administrative staff would have to testify here and there and everywhere. The present Washington staff, which is fairly small, would have to be enlarged.

Here's the catch, of course. Let's say the Smith proposals "liberalize" the law were adopted. They make OPA's job 10 times as complicated and difficult. So OPA then has to come to congress for a larger appropriation to hire more people to enforce the law and clean up the black markets.

That is just where congress would say no. You'd hear all sorts of speeches about bureaucracy running wild, about waste in government.

Let's keep price control out of the ordinary political scrimmage. Too much is at stake.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

TEACHING SUPPLY SHORT

Thousands of girls graduating from high school, who could go on to college now because of the lure of big wages; and in this short-sighted choice their parents may encourage them. Some of these girls and their parents will suppose it more patriotic to get a job than to go on to school. The really patriotic thing is for all youths to get as much education as possible. Obviously our country needs more educated people now and will need more after the war when it will have fewer.

Train for Teaching

I wish I might prevail on bright young women who will graduate from high school this June to consider teaching. Even if the war would end tomorrow, students entering the teacher training college now will find jobs awaiting them. Because of the increased birth rate of recent years and the very large number of young men who will return to high school and vocational schools after the war, the teacher demand will far exceed the supply for some years to come.

Of course teachers don't get rich. Their salaries are pretty low as a rule. Yet there is a security in teaching not found in many other fields and this will be more apparent when the next depression hits our country several years after the war. Besides, teachers are looked up to by the community, and the young woman with a zeal to be of service to children ought to gain considerable satisfaction in this field.

The cost of teacher training education is relatively low and the girl who marries later will have had good education for homemaking and motherhood.

Teachers Now in Service

Many teachers now on the job are tempted by so much higher compensation elsewhere to leave the classroom and its children. Those who are not called to the armed forces certainly must see that there is hardly a more patriotic service than to remain in the classroom.

Perhaps we parents could make more teachers feel this patriotic obligation if we expressed to them more appreciation of what they mean to our children and do for them. Moreover, in most communities, parents could express this appreciation cooperatively and effectively by bringing public pressure on the board of education to raise the salary of teachers to a decent level.

Many mothers who had training and experience in teaching before marriage now that their children may be old enough to look after themselves can have adequate protection by some responsible person or center, are returning to the classroom. Ever so many school superintendents and school principals have told me at various places throughout the United States that these mother-teachers are superior teachers. Let me urge more of them to return to the classroom, even though they must spend a summer at school on refresher courses.

Hundreds of other mothers should attend a college or university this summer to prepare for leading groups of children and youth in their respective churches and communities.

More mothers trained in nursing whose children can be protected should return to this service. Graduates from high school thinking of a patriotic service, also might consider entering nursing. They need no money, just health and brains and character. A school principal or Red Cross representative can tell them how to go about it.

Solving Parent Problems
Q Are there some standard games suitable for the tot from two to five to play with in other ways than for which they are intended?

A Yes; flinch, checkers and dominoes, for instance. Even the child eighteen months old might get amusement by and motor control from handling flinch cards in his own way. At four or five he might choose to put them on piles according to number-size, even learn to play flinch at five, gaining familiarity with figures and their order-sequency. Also the tot likes to put dominoes and checker men from one container to another. At an early age the child will separate the checker men into two piles, black and red. At three, four or five, he can build with them, and they don't take up much room.

Q My daughter thirteen complains that I am unduly strict with her in not allowing her to have the usual freedom of dates.

A Twenty-five years from now she will be deeply grateful to you for your courage in standing now against the avalanche of parents who don't protect their children. Thousands of other girls then will blame their parents for the unhappiness these girls resented because their mothers did not protect them at thirteen; and there will be a lot of mothers weeping over their children.

Lone Jap Fights To Death While Others Hari Kari

By PETER HEMERY
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE AMERICAN ASSAULT TROOPS AT HOLLANDIA, April 26—(Delayed)—Vast differences between types of Japanese as individual fighters was graphically demonstrated by the lone Jap who fought to death while others were being killed.

On a narrow strip of land, two Jap pillboxes covered the beachhead with machine guns, but the entire enemy unit consisting of 12 men committed har-kari without firing a shot at the Americans.

The other extreme was shown at Hamadi island where a lone Jap soldier armed with a "woodpecker" machine-gun held off an American attacking party for several hours before finally being killed.

Trained Combat Soldier
The pillbox Japs were believed to be reserve supply troops while the lone defender of the island undoubtedly was a well-trained combat soldier.

Hamadi island lies 100 yards offshore, flanking our beachhead and opposite our first objective—"Pancake Hill." All morning and into mid-afternoon scattered bursts of fire sent the American troops slaying to establish a beachhead, diving into foxholes. But the lone Jap was a bad shot, and never scored a single hit on that troop-crowded beach before the mid-afternoon attack dissolved in smoke.

Sees Island Corner Collapse
This correspondent had a grandstand view of the attack. Sitting under a rude native shelter directly opposite the island, he saw a corner of the island collapse with a crash. To the left a battery of mortars opened up, and to the right 40 millimeter anti-aircraft barrels dipped to slam their shells across the open water.

At sea, barges filled with rocket-projectors blasted the blind side of the island. Under this covering fire, four armored buffaloes carrying an infantry patrol broke out from the bomb-toft coconut-fringed beachhead and churned toward the island, with their machine guns chattering.

One Buffalo remained in mid-channel for observation and to cover the others; the other three dashed into the shelter of overhanging trees on the island.

Disappear Like Phantoms
Troops sprang ashore and scattered into the dense jungle. Pfc. Thomas Mackie of St. Louis, Mo., told of the search when the Buffaloes returned at dusk.

"We went right over that island with a fine mesh net," he declared. "We found and killed only a single Jap. We found traces of others being there—ashes of cookfires, empty shell cases, and a rice dish—but no sign of what happened to them or where they went."

"I don't get it. They couldn't have escaped by sea. Every man of this patrol is ready to swear there isn't a Jap on the island, except one dead guy."

Four Thousand Boys Of Big City To Aid On Farms

By HAROLD JANSEN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

ITHACA N. Y., April 29—A campaign to recruit and instruct 4,000 metropolitan New York boys, 14 to 17 years old, for seasonal work on Empire State farms have been launched in New York City, W. Jack Weaver, state supervisor of the Farm Cadet Victory Corps, announced today.

Highlights of the 1944 farm cadet program, said Weaver, are plans to improve efficiency of inexperienced youth doing farm work, through careful selection of the boys, and more thorough instruction before they reach the farms.

32 Club Organized
In New York City, 32 farm clubs have been organized in as many high schools, with 10 to 50 boys under the leadership of agricultural advisers. The farm cadet program will soon be extended to high schools of New Rochelle, White Plains, and Mt. Vernon.

At Newtown High School in New York City, successive groups of boys received two weeks of agricultural instruction on the school's farm plot. A similar program is under way at the Mt. Loretta Mission Farm, Pleasant Plains, Staten Island, where public and parochial school authorities co-operate to offer the boys training on the 500-acre farm, which includes a dairy herd of 50 cows.

Visit Nearby Farms
In the high school farm clubs, the boys study movies, slide literature from the State College of Agriculture at Cornell and from the U. S. Department of Agriculture. They make visits to nearby farms and do some work under instruction of the owners.

About May 22 groups of boys will be leaving the metropolitan area every two weeks for orientation and study at state schools of agriculture at Delhi, Cobleskill, Morrisville, Farmingdale, Alfred, and Canton, and at agricultural departments of up-state centralized high schools.

HUGE FORCE OF U. S. BOMBERS IN BERLIN ATTACK

the second for American planes this month, the aircraft factory at Oranienburg having been bombed on April 18.

The operation today was the twenty-second this month for Eighth Air Force units and the fourteenth against German cities.

Attack Northern France Also
This morning, Thunderbolt fighter-bombers attacked the Ninth Air Force's attack in northern France. All planes returned home safely.

The Berlin raid came as a follow-up to last night's RAF sweep in which the British heavyweights pulverized an Oslo aircraft factory in the Norwegian capital's heaviest assault of the war.

Air circles said the night assault was carried out "in great strength," indicating that upwards of 1,000 four-engine warbirds battered the Nazi-held city.

Swarms of bombers and fighters roared over the channel after dawn to send the invasion-eve offensive thundering through its 13th straight day. Soon after, frantic German radio "Achtung" warning followed the course of the raiders over northwestern and central Germany, reported Yank armadas attacking targets near Berlin, and finally said the raiders were over the bomb-blasted Nazi capital.

"Strong forces of German defense planes engaged the raiders while they were approaching Berlin, the Calais broadcast said, adding that aerial combats continued over the target area and during the return flight.

Oslo Attacked
Last night's attack against Oslo, requiring a 1,300-mile roundtrip flight, coincided with a Mosquito attack on the German port of Hamburg. No RAF bombers were lost in the night operations, said the air ministry.

RAF heavyweights "in great strength" struck at Oslo, concentrating a heavy weight of explosives on the Kjeller air frames factory, which repairs fighters and troop-carrying transports.

The target was clearly identified and first reports indicate bombing was well concentrated, said the ministry.

Oslo last was attacked in September, 1942.

Maintaining the offensive in daylight, great numbers of bombers and fighters roared across the channel toward the Pas De Calais and Boulogne areas of France and the Cologne radio announced that Allied raiders were over central and northwestern Germany and over the province of Brandenburg.

The new night blows came in the wake of daylight attacks against six German airdromes and northern French coastal defenses by more than 1,500 planes, most of them American. The raids, in which some 1,500 tons of explosives fell on the continent, raised to about 45,000 tons the weight of bombs poured on the continent since the current offensive was launched on April 15.

Garden Notes

When thinning carrots and parsnips it is hardly worthwhile to replant the thinnings, since the taproots are easily broken and even if the crippled plants survive they will have crooked roots.

The small, round, red radishes give the victory gardener the quickest crop, but the long, white variety are not as apt to be pithy. Potatoes like a slightly acid soil therefore do not add lime or wood ashes to the soil in which you plan to plant potatoes.

Ten days to two weeks before victory plants are moved from the cold frame to outdoor locations the hardening-off process should begin. Plants should be hardened-off gradually by getting them accustomed to less water (to encourage fibrous roots), more fresh air and direct sunshine.

Soil which is too poor to grow good flowers will not grow good vegetables.

WOMAN TAKEN ILL

Mrs. Mary Matuz, of Bessemer, was found unconscious in her home Friday morning and was brought to the Jameson Memorial hospital, where she is reported as improving today. The cause of her illness has not as yet been determined.

Lutherans Plan Joint Service At St. Paul's

World Action Film For National Project To Be Viewed On Sunday Evening

New Castle church congregations whose general bodies are members of the National Lutheran Council will unite Sunday evening at St. Paul's Lutheran church, North Jefferson and Grant streets for a brief service and a showing of the Lutheran world action film strip "Love's Working Arm".

This film will be shown at 7:45 p. m. by the Pittsburgh Synod director of Lutheran world action, the Rev. Bruce P. Shaffer, of Freeport.

Lutheran world action is a project of eight national Lutheran church groups who are raising $1,315,000 for various wartime needs which confront the Lutheran church at home and abroad. Approximately half of this money will be spent for the men and women in the armed forces and for the maintenance of 67 service centers which have been termed the "servicemen's home away from home."

Into the Mailbag

Recent figures released by the government place the estimate of mail sent to our fighting forces in billions of pieces. Yet we know that some of our boys don't receive much news from home. General MacArthur has said that next to food, mail from home is the most important thing in a soldier's life.

At Johnson Bronze we receive, on the average, a dozen letters a day from former employees now in the service. Many interesting letters too. We learn quite a lot from them... how the boys are feeling... how they like life in the service... and the new trades they are learning. One thing all these letters have in common is that all the boys want to get the job of fighting over quickly—and come back to work.

There's a good reason why we receive so much mail from these former employees. We send them a lot. On the fifteenth of each month we send each one a copy of our monthly house organ—Your Company. Then on the first of each month we send them a short, friendly letter.

How about you... have you written a letter lately? There's hardly an individual in our community that doesn't have someone in the service. It might not be a son, a daughter or a husband. It could be the son of a friend... or an old acquaintance. Why not drop him a line—tonight. Make it interesting and friendly. Then see the fine letter you receive in response. Don't put it off—or it will never be written.

Out of the Mailbag

In making up Christmas boxes for the folks in service it is never wise to include any article that will perish within twelve months. Last October we packed and shipped 430 boxes to our boys in service. Some of these boxes are just catching up with their owners.

Pvt. Patsy De Frank writes from—"Somewhere in North Africa" to advise that his box has just arrived. Patsy was wounded and in a hospital when the welcome gift reached him.

P. E. C. Frank Jr. Fazzone received his gift on March 17th—"Somewhere in Italy"—Christmas on St. Patrick's day.

There are a lot of serious minded boys in the armed forces. Many of them are taking advantage of the opportunities to better themselves in their present line or to learn a new trade entirely. Richard P. Altman, F. I. C. writes that he has taken an examination for Electrician's Mate. Altman is now located in Pensacola, Fla.

Secretary of the Treasury, Henry Morgenthau, Jr., writes to thank us for the splendid cooperation and support the employees of Johnson Bronze gave during the 4th War Loan.

Pvt. John Fair of the Signal Corps reports a little reunion in England. On a short leave over there he accidentally met PFC Wallace Moore and PFC Perry McCormick, both of the 26th Infantry. Needless to say, the subject of conversation was New Castle and Bronze.

The Navy used to make use of a slogan that inferred that to join up was to see the world. The Army Air Forces do right well, too. PFC William Adams explains why his mail was late. Some of it followed him from Rome, N. Y., to Greensboro, N. C., to Nashville, Tenn., to Alabama, to Lakeland, Fla., and finally caught up with him at Scott Field, Ill.

Dutch East Indies Resources Will Be Accessible To All

Such Is Radio Statement From The Netherlands Government Says Report

By LEON PEARSON
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, April 29.—The Netherlands government went formally on record today as permitting access by the rest of the world to the oil and other natural resources of the Dutch East Indies.

Reconquest of the fabulously wealthy territory of the Indies was begun a week ago, with the taking of Hollandia, on the north coast of Dutch New Guinea.

The Netherlands statement was prompted by news dispatches from New Guinea, which raised the question whether the United States and Great Britain, after spending lives and material in the reconquest of Dutch territory, will be permitted participation in the development of these resources.

The statement, emanating by radio from the Netherlands government in London, was recorded in Washington by the Federal Communications commission. It said:

"The Netherlands as well as the United States has signed the Atlantic Charter, and one clause was that all states, big and small, will have access to the world's resources."

This was given specifically as a reply to American news dispatches which raised the question of how the rich petroleum deposits of New Guinea are to be developed. It is interpreted by Washington officials as indicating an open door policy for exploitation and development.

Million Acres Are Flooded In Midwest Area

ST. LOUIS, April 29.—(INS)—More than one million acres of land in Missouri and Illinois are under water today as the Mississippi and Missouri rivers continued to rise toward predicted crests equal to those of last year, the highest since 1844.

The mid-western area office of the American Red Cross in St. Louis has estimated 520,000 acres of crops in 32 Missouri counties and 29 Illinois counties have been destroyed. Crop losses must be suffered by the farmers this year as federal crop insurance has been cut off by Congress.

Huge Throng At Minstrel Show By Consistory Choir

Splendid Program Is Given For Members Of Scottish Rite Body And Families

Friday night's presentation of the "Yankee Doodle Minstrels," 1944 edition, by the Consistory Choir of the Valley of New Castle Consistory, A.A.S.R., was attended by a crowd of 2,500, in the huge North Hill auditorium.

The throng was not disappointed, a splendid program, with snappy jokes, laugh provoking stunts, and song numbers being presented. The cast has been rehearsing for some time on last night's production, under the direction of Director David W. Rees of the choir, and they presented a finished production.

With Billy Williams presiding as interactor, the end men, DeLace Cole, Lou Pearson, Dick Bassinger, Tom Grittle, Russell Melvin and Bert Sanford, kept the crowd in an uproar with their jokes and antics, and carried the old timers back to the days of Lou Dockstader, and other famous greats of the past.

Special numbers were given by the choir, the quartet, consisting of Leonard Kisthart, Russell P. Rhodes, David W. Rees and Arthur Harris, and Elaine Ray, dancer and baton twirler.

King Cole and his hill billy orchestra also gave a group of old time hill billy orchestra numbers which were much enjoyed. The accompanying work was in the hands of Ernest Branstetter and his orchestra.

At the close of the program a fine lunch was served, buffet style, by Clarence S. Jarrett and his kitchen committee, which left little to be desired.

Dancing in the main ball room topped off the evening's program, which was one of the most enjoyable given in some time, and brought out the largest attendance to a Consistory party held in many years.

The United States makes over 50 per cent of the world's paper and uses over 60 per cent, the difference being imported.

Scream, Carried Via Juke, Results In Quick Arrest

PHILADELPHIA, April 29.—(INS)—A woman's scream for help as she grappled in the arms of a husky thug brought quick relief today when it was heard a mile away over a juke box in a Philadelphia taproom.

The assailant attacked Miss Anna Roche, 30, of North Philadelphia in the record room of the Automatic Recording Machine Co., as she finished playing a disc requested by a tavern patron.

The telephonic connection which makes the loudspeaker both a receiver and transmitter remained open when the record was finished and her cries for aid, heard in the tavern, brought help quickly.

Police said they arrested Fred Wizzard, 43, of Philadelphia, as the assailant.

Legion Junior League Formed

Six Teams Will Be Represented In Circuit Which Starts On May 16

Six teams were represented at the meeting held Friday evening in the Legion home on North Jefferson street when final plans for the opening of the American Legion Junior League were made. It was decided to start play on May 16, and a schedule will be drawn up for the league season by the committee.

Chairman Earl Moffatt presided, and an excellent talk on sportsmanship was given by Commander Clark B. Book, Mike Donovan, president of the city league also spoke, and told the boys they were the coming players of tomorrow and urged them to take advantage of the fine opportunity presented by the American Legion in their league. Frank L. Gown, who will coach the representative team and assist the boys during the season, also spoke interestingly on what he expects from the boys.

The teams who will be granted franchises are: Dean Park Dodgers, last year's champions, Gary Corners, Wolverines, Cubs, Fairbanks, and North Hill Cardinals. They will use the Gaston Park, Dean Park, Ryanstown, George Washington and Lehigh fields.

A commission to settle disputes, and act in an advisory capacity was named, consisting of Robert Hamilton, James C. Brice and Earl E. Durr.

Contracts were given the teams for their players, which must be turned in on May 19, when the final meeting prior to the opening of the season will take place.

A fine lunch was served the boys by Nick Speed and James Cooper at the close of the meeting.

ST. VITUS TAKES CATHOLIC TITLE

Other players who played well throughout the season are John Calabala, Frank Cople, Philip Cori, Joe Vascetti and Anthony Tescano.

The team has won 20 consecutive games against no defeats.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

It won't be long now until the boys who formerly were cavalrymen, then switched to an artillery outfit, will be wearing four overseas stripes. This information comes today in a letter from Captain Eddie Eakin. It follows:

April 16, 1944.

Dear Ed:
Received your letter of rather card yesterday and was really glad to hear from you. Hope this finds you and the family in the best of health and enjoying the present day life just as much as possible. Give my best regards to all.

I know you are wondering if I have been in contact with Eddie as yet? I am sorry to say that as yet I have been unable to see him but I did talk to him some time ago on the telephone. I have been trying to get a leave and make it a point to look up quite a few of the home town boys who are over now. Really have been so busy the past few months with a commission to settle disputes, and act in an advisory capacity was named, consisting of Robert Hamilton, James C. Brice and Earl E. Durr.

Well, what is the latest news from the old home town? Has the place really changed much? You know it has been quite some time since I last saw it. Just a couple more months and I will be entitled to the fourth overseas stripe. Sure has been a long time since the troop or rather rather boarded the train at the West Side station and went into federal service. A lot of things have been gained and lost in that time. There isn't any part of the U. K. that I haven't seen in that time. A very friendly country and all that, but you can bet your last dollar you are still using those things as a means of credit aren't you? That all the boys are coming back to the good old U. S. A. when it is all over. This letter is being written from the homeland of your mother's folks. Whereabouts did they live?

(Note: Cornwall.)
Everyone from New Castle that is still with us is in the best of health and as happy as practicable. Really is hard waiting. Everything is really in tip-top shape. I just hope that things back home are in as good a condition.

Time is just about up so I'll bring this note to a finish hoping to hear from you in the very near future. I'll drop you a note when I see Eddie.
Regards, ED.

Here a letter from Pfc. K. Zeigler, now with an artillery outfit. It shows that Pfc. K. has been letting one from Ohio tell him that New Castle high did not defeat Massillon in football. Here is his letter:

Camp Phillips, Kas.
April 23, 1944.
Friend Fritz:
I would like to have an argument settled and the only way is through you. I am stationed here with a lot of Ohio boys and of course, they hold up for everything in their state, including Massillon. I would like for you to send me the result of that game and the year in which it was played. Thanks a lot, and I hope I win the bet.

Sincerely, PFC. K. ZEIGLER.
Note to Zeigler: New Castle defeated Massillon, seven to nothing, at Massillon in 1937.

A year ago there was a youngster employed in the circulation department of this newspaper who was baseball-minded. He had it for breakfast, dinner and supper and no doubt he read baseball magazines in bed. He was a swell kid. He like 8 or 9 million others now are in service. Here is his missive:

Friend Ed:
Sorry I didn't write you a few paragraphs about the opening of the majors but I was very busy. I am sure glad to see the old game come back. And Ed, let me know if they're going to have the City League operating again. (Note: Yes, "Bomber," it will start May 16). I am glad to hear the Legion is sponsoring a league this year. Well, the draft is taking most of the players. Let me know what's doing in sports back home.

Your Pal, G. LITERATORE.
When the folks bowl was in operation, Nat Moll of Midland was one of the deputies sent here by Harvey Boyle who was the commissioner. To keep an eye on operations. Nat was a fair-minded fellow and got along with the Tin Ear fraternity. He has been an announcer at Forbes field and intends to operate a baseball school this season. He writes, Midland, Pa., April 27, 1944.

Friend Ed:
I have arranged a try-out school and baseball camp for June 15-17, under the supervision of the Pittsburgh Pirates. Leo Mackey and Joe Breheny will be in charge of the school. Any boy 15 years of over is invited to attend the school. They will have to bring their shoes and uniforms. Bats and catching equipment will be furnished by the Pirates. There will be a morning and afternoon session. This school will be held at Beaver High school athletic field, Beaver.
Your Friend, NAT MOLL.

BREVITIES: New Castle high is a participant in Ambridge track meet today. Princess Phillips won the Touche Memorial cup at County Kildare (Ireland) track recently, paying off an 11. There will be a meeting of City Baseball League teams in the Y at 8 o'clock Monday night. There may be an eighth club added to the circuit. No doubt commissioners for the season will be elected.

Athletics Win From Red Sox In 16 Innings

NEW YORK, April 29.—(INS).—National League President Ford Frick had on his desk today a vigorous protest from Leo Durocher, protesting yesterday's win by the Giants over Lappy's Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Dodgers lost the game, 6 to 4, despite superior hitting power which tallied 12 hits for the Brooklyn boys to only half that number for the Giants.

Durocher bases his protest on an incident in the first inning, when Umpire Tom Dunn refused to call a balk on Pitcher Bill Voiselle. The Dodger manager, after a lengthy and noisy argument, announced he was playing the game under protest and would duly register the complaint with Frick. It was the Giants' third win over the Dodgers.

Games Goes 11 Frames
At Philadelphia, the Phillies forced the Boston Braves to play an 11-inning game after Ford Fieldman singled Coaker Triplett across the plate in the ninth to tie the score at one-all. A single by Connie Ryan, plus two sacrifice bunts, thrown to late for force plays and a fly from Butch Nienman put the Braves one up to take the game in the second overtime inning, 2 to 1. Nate Andrews went the route for the Braves.

The Cincinnati Reds moved into a second place tie with the St. Louis Cardinals, temporarily idle, by their defeat of the Pittsburgh Pirates, 2 to 0. Ed Husear hurled a seven-hit game for the winning Reds.

A's Win Over Boston
St. Louis and Chicago were not scheduled.
In the American league, Philadelphia and Boston staged a knock-down, draught-out contest that stretched into 16 innings before the Athletics finally downed the Red Sox, 7 to 5. Woody Wheaton's single with bases loaded drove home the two runs that clinched the ball game for the A's. It was Wheaton's only hit in eight tries.

Browns Win Another
The Cleveland Indians defeated the Detroit Tigers, 2 to 1, in the opener of a four-game series, in which veteran hurler Mel Harder chalked up his 198th American league victory.

In Chicago, the St. Louis Browns tied a modern major league record by overwhelming the White Sox, 3 to 1, for their ninth victory in a row. Held mostly by the 1918 Giants and the 1940 Dodgers, the Browns joined these teams with the record when Jack Kramer won his third game with a four-hit performance.

Washington and New York were not scheduled.

Dumb Dan Plays All-Italian Parlay To Regain Riches

NEW YORK, April 29.—"Dumb Dan" Morgan, the prize manager who lost more than $600,000 on horses during the past 9 years, is now playing an all-Italian parlay which he hopes will put him in position to recoup. He blew his money on hay-burners.

Morgan, who never took a drink in his life; Morgan, who never smoked; Morgan, who never pimped on the pinrose path—still is America's eternal optimist. He still figures he can beat the horse. For that reason alone, he has shifted from the camp of Sal Bartolo, featherweight champ (N. B. A. version), to the camp of ex-champ Phil Terranova, current challenger.

Dumb Dan Not Dumb
Morgan, one of the smartest men in boxing, was quoted at $1,000 to make his shift by Terranova's manager, Bobby Gleason; moreover, he was promised a bonus of $500 if Terranova recaptures the N. B. A. feather crown from Bartolo in their return title bout in Boston's Garden a week from Friday night.

"Dumb Dan" was called because he spoke a thousand words where 10 would do—a lean, bespectacled, semi-bald Irishman who has given the back of his hand to 60 years. He earned a fortune as manager of Battling Levinsky, light-heavyweight champion. Jack Britton, Mattell, mid-dleweight kings; Knockout Brown and a flock of other prominent pugilists.

I saw slugs throwing punches at Jack Britton, the master boxer, for about 20 years. I know what a slugger has to do to beat a good boxer. I'll impart that knowledge. I'll get my bonus thereby completing two parts of my three-way Italian parlay.

It seems that both Bartolo and Terranova are Italian. But what is the third part of his Italian parlay? Betting on Accaro.
Morgan, a friend of the Bartolo-Terranova fight is on the night of May 5. That's the eve of the Kentucky Derby. Terranova will win. I'll take my $1,500 and add to it the $500 I've saved from the Bartolo victory in March, and plank it all down on Eddie Accaro in the Derby. Accaro is riding Str Up, the favorite. That will complete my Italian parlay, and then I'll.

Montgomery Has No Trouble Beating Peralta In Chicago Battle

CHICAGO, April 29.—(INS).—Chicago boxing fans knew today why Bob Montgomery is recognized as the world's lightweight champion in New York state.

The Philadelphia Negro gave a convincing demonstration of his ability in punching out a unanimous 10-round decision over Joey Peralta of Tanquepa, Pa., in a non-title bout that marked the return of boxing to the Coliseum last night after two years.

The first two rounds were marked by sharp two-handed exchanges, with neither having a decided edge. Montgomery found the range in the third and scored with whistling rights, one of which opened a cut over Peralta's eye and forced him to hang on. Bob misser frequently in the fourth, but smashed the injured eye open again.

Peralta staged a surprising rally in the fifth as he bounced right hand shots off Montgomery's jaw. Bob made Peralta hang on in the sixth when he connected with a piston-like right to the jaw. Peralta was on the receiving end again in the seventh and eighth, scored a hit in the ninth, but also dropped this round and the next.

Montgomery weighed in at 140 and Peralta at 138. It was Montgomery's third victory over the Pennsylvania Mexican.

The Illinois Boxing Commission reported 6,112 paid admissions with receipts $21,947.83.

CHICAGO RACE SEASON STARTS

CHICAGO, April 29.—(INS).—They're off! Chicago's racing season, which will continue to November, gets underway at Sportsman's Park this afternoon amid prodigious crowds that attendances and betting records will be shattered.

Today's top event was the seven-furlong Inaugural Handicap, a $25,000 purse that will be run in two sections, because of the large number of entries and track regulations limiting the number of horses. The winner of each section will draw the original $25,000 prize tag.

Here's a photograph of 12 crappies caught in one hour in Lake Erie, Ill., and according to Jack Welch in Campfire Corner they're good eatin' in early season. As every fisherman knows, there are kinds of crappies or bass. White crappie has 35, rarely five spines in his dorsal fin and Black has seven or eight. Come July and you may examine 'em—if you're lucky.

Michigan, N. Y. U., Dartmouth Tie In Penn Relays

PHILADELPHIA, April 29.—(INS).—The second day of competition in the 50th annual Penn relay track meet opened today with Dartmouth, Michigan and New York university out in front.

The Wolverines, champions of the Big Ten, took honors by their victory in the 100-yard meet. The NYC runners clipped two-tenths of a second from their last year's time to retain the quarter-mile crown. Dartmouth placing second to Michigan in the distance run, took top place in the sprint college medley.

The New York university shaving of last year's time was not the only surprise of the day, although the track was heavy and muddy from several days rain.

Michigan Wins Medley
Michigan's trio of Willis Glas, Bob Uter and the Hume twins—Roe and Bob—knocked three seconds off last year's time by taking the distance medley in 10:20.1. Notre Dame was last year's victor.

Don Burnham, Dartmouth's champion runner, unseated a fine half to take the sprint college medley by 20 yards. Columbia was second and West Point third. Army had led most of the way until Burnham spurred to victory near the end.

Would Legalize 'Off Track' Bets

Illegal "Hand Books" Now Thrive But State Misses Out On Tax

By LAWTON CARVER
(International News Service Staff Editor)

NEW YORK, April 29.—One of the biggest and richest rackets in the world—a flourishing undercover business that runs to an estimated total of three billion dollars a year, seems destined soon to be purified into a strictly legal financial boon to state and city coffers. Agitation is growing in New York for licensed, off-track betting, and if it is started here it is certain to be picked up elsewhere.

Latest support for this long-discussed tax-raising maneuver comes from the Kings county, New York, grand jury which has handed up a presentment urging legalized horse rooms.

Would Aid State Taxes
Herbert Bayard Swope, chairman of the New York State Racing Commission, also is an advocate of pouring into the state coffers the 72 millions a year he figures lost in taxes through undercover betting with the illegal bookies, which he feels New York State doesn't think legalized off-track betting would make new bettors but, rather, would give the inveterate sidewalk horsemen a run for their money.

As you know, the flourishing illegal bookies limit the bettor to 20 or 30 to one on a win and graduating odds for place and show, regardless of what the horse may pay and moreover, have been known to take a walk and not show up again, if you tell them heavy.

They may tell you in this connection that they can't operate for the convenience of the suckers. That's part of it, but the rest of it is that the bookies know one thing for certain: The horse-player will bet regardless of the price he may be paid and even at the risk of not being paid at all.

Neither the grand jury nor Mr. Swope suggests exactly how the legalized handbooks should be operated, but the latter has some ideas on the proposition after careful study.

THE WINTER Co.

Rabbit Trapping Proves Successful

Transfer Of Cottontails To Woodland Areas Falls Below Expectations

HARRISBURG, April 29.—Pennsylvania victory gardeners will have 31,000 fewer vegetable-eating rabbits to contend with this year, the State Game commission disclosed today.

While the annual live-trapping program to transfer cottontails from urban to woodland areas was below expectations, Director Seth Gordon said it served its objectives of providing relief to gardeners and replenishing small game stock in rural districts.

Will Name Repellents
"Lack of snow handicapped the program, and then some folks didn't take advantage of the winter months to do their trapping," Gordon said. He pointed out, however, that 20,000 rabbits were better than last year, when 39,000 were transferred.

Gordon said the program has been curtailed because vegetation sprouts are now providing more food for rabbits and because their breeding season is at hand.

The commission is preparing to inform gardeners of crop repellents which it claims will act in reducing destruction by rabbits.

Shenango Pottery Players To Report

Shenango Pottery baseball team will practice at 5 p. m. Sunday on Lee avenue field. All players are ordered to report.

Great Lakes, now more famous than ever due to its football victory over Notre Dame, is an old establishment. It was opened in 1911.

Ferris Buss Banning

Ferris also banned Dick Wakefield, another member of the Iowa City pre-flight team, but the former Detroit Tiger baseball player had withdrawn earlier from the relays.

The outstanding attraction on today's program will be an attempt by Eugene Cornelius Warmerdam, world's champion pole-vaulter, to break the Drake record. Warmerdam has cleared 15 feet 42 inches in his career and should break the Drake mark which is below that figure.

Other outstanding figures in today's events include Jack Deifel, national intercollegiate champion pole vaulter; Buddy Young of Illinois, who twice has equalled the world's record for the 60-yard dash; Bob Kelley of Illinois, an all-American track man; and Johnny Link, sensational Notre Dame quarter-back, who seeks high jump honors.

Schools Turn In New Record Of
Tin Cans In Past Week
In New Castle

From here, there and everywhere, the tin cans rolled into the city schools this week. Pupils of the eight elementary buildings collected the largest total for one week since the job was started a year and a half ago. The children, qualifying for tickets to the tin can matinee on Saturday morning, collected 72,338 cans. West Side school turned in the most outstanding job. All pupils turned in cans, giving their school the only 100% record in the city, and their total of 12,393 was also high. Among larger schools, Thaddeus Stevens led with 99% participation and Arthur McGill reported the best collection, 10,291. Winning pupils were as follows: At West Side, Charles Walzer, age 10, grade 5 turned in 1116 cans. The leader at Thaddeus Stevens was Catherine Eckert, age 7, grade 2, with 320 cans. Almost Ten Million Cans Are Collected During March

HARRISBURG, April 29.—Collection of 9,792,633 prepared tin cans by pupils of 1157 schools of 62 counties in Pennsylvania for the war salvage program during the month of March was announced today by Frank R. Fish of the department of public instruction, schools salvage chairman of the State Council of Defense's advisory committee on salvage.

The Broughton school, near Wellsboro, Tioga county, for the third consecutive month topped all the other schools in the state on a per pupil basis. The 18 enrolled pupils of the school collected 33,737 prepared tin cans, for an average of 1874 cans per pupil. The Sheridan school, Porter township, Schuylkill county, was second. The 63 enrolled pupils collected 36,147 cans, an average of 573.7 cans per pupil.

Synthetic 'Gas' Seen After War

DETROIT, April 29.—(INS)—The possibility that post-war motorists will drive their new, streamlined cars on fuel extracted from farm and forest products was seen today with the disclosures from Henry Ford and the Carnegie Institution that they are working on the problem.

Commenting on the report that Dr. E. Borel, of Carnegie, has succeeded in making gasoline from farm produce, the motor magnate revealed that his own company actually succeeded in synthesizing a motor fuel from farm products that worked as far back as 1918.

"But," he added, "We were never able to reduce the cost of production enough to make it practical."

The fuel did not require any major change in the automobile at the time, said Ford, but tests showed it worked more efficiently when cylinder compression was increased from the usual 135 pounds to approximately 180 pounds per square inch.

Looking back over more than 30 years sponsorship of agricultural research, Ford recalled with amusement the skepticism of newspapers and cartoonists many years ago, when he predicted that the automobile and its fuel eventually would be grown on the farm.

Enormous progress has been made in the production of plastics from agricultural products since then, Ford pointed out, and he predicted they will be used more extensively than ever before for all industrial purposes after the war.

"There have been developments along other lines during the war, too, that will bring the farm and factory closer together when we go back to peacetime production," he said.

The United States, United Kingdom, France and Germany are normally the four wealthiest nations in the world.

NEW ROAD SIGNS AT INTERSECTIONS

HARRISBURG, April 29.—Late last fall, a program was instituted to make repainting, repairing or replacement of all Pennsylvania Department of Highways road signs.

Special attention was given to marking intersections of all improved highways with proper directional signs, suitably placed where they would best meet the eye of the passing motorist.

These signs are three feet in length, mounted on a four by four inch wooden post. They show the names of the towns immediately to the right or left of the intersection, as the case may be, and the mileage, forthwith. Black lettering on a white background makes them readable at a glance.

Approximately 5,500 directional sign posts were included in the original plan, and most of these have been erected. Painted on these posts are almost ten thousand cities and towns in Pennsylvania.

In addition to these directional signs, which embody the biggest feature of the new sign program, approximately 63,000 signs of various descriptions have been repainted, replaced or repaired, including traffic route markers, symbol signs, warning, Victory Speed cautions, bridge load limitations, etc.

"We feel that safety on the modern highways demands appropriate, uniform and properly maintained traffic signs," Secretary Shroyer said in commenting upon the expansive sign program. "We are bending every effort to furnish the traveling public with the best of service when it comes to intelligent road guidance. In other words, we want drivers on our highways to feel safe when they are traveling over them, and we want to make it practically impossible for any motorist to become lost on our vast system of roads."
